

Danielle Conroy

Associate

Organisational change, transformational leadership processes and executive vertical development.

Essential

Danielle is a specialist in transformational leadership development, coaching and organizational change. With over 25 years as an organizational development consultant & executive coach, working for a global company like Novartis Pharmaceuticals in Switzerland, co-founding & managing two successful businesses in Australia, & more recently strategically partnering with US consulting companies, Danielle brings a significant breadth and depth to her consulting and coaching practice.

Transforming the executive

Danielle's broad experience has deepened her understanding of the complexity, challenges and rewards of working in, and consulting to, medium, large & matrix organizations in different cultures & countries. Currently residing in the Bay Area of San Francisco, some recent US clients include Dropbox, Silicon Valley Bank (SVB), Alt School, Cisco, Google, Entelo, Stubhub, Wheelhouse, Fyber, Parallel Advisors, MedImmune, The Nature Conservancy & Sanofi.

Vertical development & feminine leadership

In the last several years, Danielle has researched the emerging deeper knowledge of vertical development for executives, and become a true expert in the field. Through her in depth coaching of senior executives, her interest and passion in integrating her own and others' authentic feminine leadership into successful business has become another special focus. To that end she is committed to extending the conversation about shared gender intelligence.

USA: +1 (415) 450-7845

Strategic Futures – Healthy Culture – Grand Leadership – Executive Development